

Budweiser American Ale

Introduced:	2008
Beer Category/Style:	American-style amber ale
Taste Profile:	Budweiser American Ale has a robust taste that's full-bodied, but not too heavy or too bitter. Initial citrus and slight green hop aromas in the nose from the Cascade dry hop are balanced by caramel and slight toasted malt flavor and aromas. The beer is balanced and full-bodied but not overpowering, with a savory finish.
Ingredients/Brewing:	Carefully brewed with the highest quality American ingredients, this rich, amber-colored, all-malt ale delivers a satisfying bold taste with a bright hoppy finish. It's an ale that's distinctly American in character. Brewed with caramel malted barley for a beautiful, rich amber color and sweet malt character and dry-hopped with Cascade hops from the Pacific Northwest for a noticeably citrus aroma, Budweiser American Ale achieves the perfect balance of rounded malt and hop flavor.
